Hi James,

I'd agree the well is not adding much information, and another ND does not add substantially to the data mix. But rather than eliminating the well, let's move the sampling to an annual basis (using the first quarter [March] as the sampling period). With the recent groundwater change, while likely just anomalous, it would likely be wise to keep the well in the mix. Hope this helps somewhat.

Best,

Hey Mark,

In looking at the data for this site, well MW-4 has generally been ND since the mid-1990s, and as such sampling of this well no longer appears warranted. Thus, on behalf of Chevron, we would like to request that further sampling of this well be discontinued. It would still be gauged to get the GWE during each event. Let me know what you think. Thanks.

Sincerely,
