Kevin Hinkley called to relay his position that the site needs to be cleaned up to appropriate standards, and that he is not interested in seeing Chevron remove the equipment until the job is done correctly; he's lived with it for awhile, so can continue to live with it. He does not want to be stuck with any cleanup after the case is closed. He read our letter that there may be significant hydrocarbons remaining in soil, but that sufficient contaminant removal may have occurred, and that the postulation that sufficient removal has occurred must be tested. Apparently spoke with Chevron and they will be rebutting the letter.
