Subject: RE: State Water Resources Control Board 5-year Review for 2991 Hopyard Road, Pleasanton RO0362

Good morning Jerry, thanks for forwarding the attached information to my attention. The well mentioned in Water Board's report is not named as the City of Pleasanton's well. I believe Zone 7 has an inactive well in the area that has shown high nitrite problem, so the report might be pointing to Zone 7's well.

Subject: State Water Resources Control Board 5-year Review for 2991 Hopyard Road, Pleasanton RO0362

Thanks for speaking with me today regarding Pleasanton Well No. 7. Attached is the Draft 5-Year Review prepared by the UST Cleanup Fund for the Exxon fuel leak case at 2991 Hopyard Road in Pleasanton. Since this 5-year review is a Draft, it is not yet in the public case file that can be viewed on the Alameda County Environmental Health website or GeoTracker. The remaining electronic case file can be viewed in either location but the ACEH website listed below has more of the older documents.

Within the next 30 days, we will be responding to the Cleanup Fund recommendation for closure provided in the 5-year review. We will be indicating that the case should remain open. Any feedback you have regarding the groundwater resources in this area could be incorporated into our response.
