Phone call with Brian Silva. He had a question regarding decommissioning of three soil vapor probes in a currently occupied space. A tenant will be moving into the space and they would like to remove the three sub-slab probes. I indicated that the probes could be decommissioned with the understanding that we could request further sampling in the future. Potentially, the probes could have to be re-installed. We have not completed long-term evaluation of potential vapor intrusion risks for the building. He will submit a request in writing to confirm.
