Spoke with Joan Baria of Hank's Automotive and walked her through accessing Geotracker and explained what the county knows of their site. We had some trouble getting to Geotracker, ending up at North Coast's website. In regards to the site, the last large bit of info was a workplan to investigate an old UST, removed previous to reporting (by an "informant"). Her father recently passed away and they are keeping the business going for now. She recently came across a soil report (reported as clean) done by the consultant that submitted the work plan, almost tossed it. I recommend that she submit it so we might be able to close the case. She'll likely submit as a hard copy. She also said that Sprint did a bunch of soil bores for a cell tower that is on their property that might provide some information also.
