Cem Atabek from Ninyo and Moore called to ask about the NOV that was sent on July 24, 2009 to claim the site. He said that the site is currently a DTSC case 204223 called Downtown Education Complex. They removed a tank from the property in 1999. The tank was located 20 feet below ground surface and was closed in place after the product was removed. This information should be on Envirostor. Soil borings were performed and additional investigation was recently performed. Cem said they did not discover contamination. He said the history of the site was in 1992 free product was discovered seeping into a vault nearby and the case was opened at that time. He believes that the free product was from a different site in the area.

He asked what the next steps were and I said for his client to claim the site, update the landowner information sheet and send back and I would look up the site in Envirostor to see if it was a duplicate.
