Mr. Roessler - As you discussed with Ada this afternoon, we have rec'd your e-mail and are planning to hand out the fact sheets on Monday May 7th to the parents with children attending the Montessori Plus preschool.

Mr and Mrs Wong,

Thank you for your response and I did receive the Certified Letter. Comments as follows:

1. The ACEH and DTSC are government agencies staffed with experts in environmental problems paid by the public to protect the public welfare. Essentially, they are experts telling you and I what to do and are empowered by our laws which they can legally enforce. In other words, they are telling us what to do and not vice versa.

2. We set up our equipment to remove the excess vapor approximately four (4) months ago. The Kindercare facility across the street is handing out the Fact Sheets this morning to their customers which leaves your Montessori School as the only reason we are not able to start the vapor extraction. It is costing us extra monies to leave the machinery idle while you continue to object to obeying the directions of the government agencies and environmental law which may put you in a position of liability for our extra costs.

3. Currently, we are planning at being on site in front of your School first thing tomorrow morning, May 2, 2012, to hand out the Fact Sheets personally to your customers. I will be there, Mehrdad Javaher will be there and Paresh Khatri will be there. This was outlined as an alternative to you in a prior letter. Quite frankly, this seems a little ridiculous that you have put us in this position which will certainly cause some confusion to your customers. If you will 1) provide the names and addresses of your customers as you did several years ago or 2) hand out the Fact Sheets to your customers personally and then write a letter certifying you have done this to Paresh Khatri as Kindercare is doing, you can avoid this awkward situation tomorrow morning

Please advise if you want to avoid us being there tomorrow morning. Trying to advise the government agencies on how to do their job is not an alternative. If not, we will see you tomorrow morning.

Paresh, Donna and Mehrdad,

I just finished having a long talk with Ada Wong and she has agreed to hand out the Fact Sheets to her customers. She will email me tonight and we will set up a time and I will supply the Fact Sheets. Thus, we should call off going to the Montessori School first thing in the morning.
